ESD NEWS

Daniel Whitney was selected to receive the IEEE Robotics & Automation Society (RAS) Pioneer Award for "his fundamental pioneering contributions to robotic assembly and its integration into product development." RAS award recipients will be honored during an award luncheon to be held at ICRA 2015 on May 28.

***

Crossroads 2015 will be on March 24 in E51. See item in Supply Chain Management Review.

PUBLICATION

IN THE MEDIA

Co-authors of new report on solar lanterns include several from ESD
“MIT-USAID program releases pioneering evaluation of solar lanterns”

***

Article on the recent SCALE Research Expo
“Research Expo a global window on new supply-chain ideas”
MIT News – February 2, 2015

***

Article on project of SCM student Zyad El Jebbari
“Connecting Morocco’s artisans with the world”

***

Richard Larson quoted in article on call center wait times
“Call center wait times can be guarded corporate secrets”
The Boston Globe – February 6, 2015
Coverage of 2.009, includes quotes from Warren Seering
“Learning the art of the pitch at MIT”
The Boston Globe - February 5, 2015

“A Fair Day’s Wage”
The New Yorker – February 2, 2015

“Shake Shack Will Be a Fast-Food Role Model - If It Doesn't Lose Its Way”
The Huffington Post – January 31, 2015

Nicholas Ashford the lead author of a letter to Science (published online)
“Cancer risk: role of environment”
Science – February 6, 2015
(The letter argues against the conclusions reached by the authors of this article: “Variation in cancer risk among tissues can be explained by the number of stem cell divisions”—and argues that many cancers can be traced to environmental causes.)

EVENTS

Monday, February 9, 2015
SDM Systems Thinking Webinar Series
“To Model or Not to Model? Formalizing the Conceptual Modeling Thought Process to Benefit Engineers and Scientists”
Time: 12-1pm (EST)
Speaker: Dov Dori, Lecturer, MIT Engineering Systems Division and Harry Lebensfeld Chair in Industrial Engineering, Technion—Israel Institute of Technology

Tuesday, February 10, 2015
LIDS Seminar Series
Speaker: David Simchi-Levi
Location: 32-155
Time: 4pm

Monday, February 23, 2015
SDM Systems Thinking Webinar Series
“How to Open-source the Creative Process: Democratizing Innovation, Product Design and Development, and Technology Strategy”
Ali Almossawi, Data Visualization Engineer, Mozilla; Author, An Illustrated Book of Bad Arguments; and SDM Alumnus
Time: 12-1pm

###